Welcome to the World of Microbes

Microbes are all around us--numbering in the trillions--and yet they are too small to see. Some microbes are good and some are bad. This 4-session hands-on class will give students a fun introduction to microbiology. It also will allow them to be citizen scientists and add to the data collection of a study that is taking place at NC State University.

2/1
4:00 pm
Ages:
5 & up

Groundhog Day

In anticipation of Groundhog Day, we will learn all about this critter that you probably have seen either in your yard or along the roadside here in North Carolina.
